CONVICTION OF NEWBERRY SET ASIDE BY U. S.

Supreme Court Holds that Congress Has No Power to Regulate Primary Elections

CONVICTED FOR VIOLATION OF U. S. CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT

Sixteen Other Defendants Also Freed Under Ruling of High Court

WASHINGTON.—Conviction of United States Senator Truman H. Newberry in federal court in Michigan for conspiracy to violate the federal corrupt practices act was set aside Monday by the supreme court. The conviction of sixteen other defendants also was set aside. The court held that congress was without power to regulate primaries.

Justice McReynolds read the opinion. Justice McKenna withheld his opinion as to the power of congress, but agreed as to the decision.

Chief Justice White also dissented from the decision that congress did not have power to control all elections, but agreed that the state had been "grossly misconstrued."

Justice McReynolds said that the lower court erred in dismissing the demurrer of the defendants.

"Obviously the corrupt practices act covers also the primaries and other preliminary acts preceding an election," the court said. "The one question here is whether congress may limit expenditures of a candidate. The source of such power is in Section 4, Article I of the Constitution. This gives congress the power of regulating the manner of holding elections," and not of "elections."

Chief Justice White, in his dissenting opinion traced in detail the growth of the election system to show that congress was given the power under the constitution to regulate senatorial elections.

"It is essentially a federal matter, not existing before the constitution," said he.

The direct election amendment to the constitution has not changed the provisions of Section 4, Article I, of that document, the court held.

Chief Justice White predicted that legislation would come which would set aside today's decision as to the power of congress over primaries for otherwise "government cannot live." He called attention to those states in which the primary had been made the controlling feature of the election. In such cases, he said, "election is still-born and the vote without power or weight."

White Urges New Trial

Associate Justice Pitney also read an opinion dissenting in part from the court's decision and announced that Associate Justices Brandeis and Clarke had concurred in the opinion he filed.

Chief Justice White said he concurred in the reversal of the conviction. (Continued on page six)

Home Rule Inaugurated In Ireland

DUBLIN.—A new chapter in Irish history, in many respects the most momentous in generations, will be recorded this week with the inauguration of the new home-rule partition act. This will mark the end of the act of the union under which Ireland has been governed from Westminster for 120 years. The week will also witness the inauguration of Lord Talbot, the new lord lieutenant, who is the first Catholic to hold that office in recent times.

Despite the importance of these developments the Irish people appeared today to await them with the utmost indifference. Commenting upon them, the Unionist Irish Times, one of the most conservative newspapers in the country said: "Under other conditions these events might well have been the occasion of a great outburst of enthusiasm, particularly on the part of those who constitute the great majority of the population. Nominally, the act concedes some measure of self-government, which has been so long demanded, and it removes the last real disability under which the Catholic religion has existed in this country."

Lord Talbot will be sworn in Tuesday with the usual ceremonies although he will not make the traditional state entry into Dublin castle with the old time pageantry and fanfare of trumpets. Later he will issue a proclamation summoning the parliament for North and South Ireland. Writs will then be issued for the returning officers in the various polling districts.

GENERAL STRIKE OF PRINTERS AVERTED AS DEMAND IS MET

Employers in Many of Larger Cities Accept Principle of 44-Hour Week

ISOLATED STRIKES CALLED WHERE DEMAND IS REFUSED

Local Unions Authorized to Order Walk-outs

CHICAGO, Ill.—Acceptance by employers in many of the larger cities of the 44-hour week in the printing industry Monday appeared to have averted a nation-wide strike in book and job printing shops, although isolated strikes in newspaper plants and job printing offices had been called. Local officials of the International Typographical union were authorized by international headquarters to call strikes where employers refused to concede the 44-hour week and at a number of cities in the east newspapers were threatened by strikes of printers.

In several cities strike votes also were being taken by pressmen and other unions allied in the printing industry.

About 250 locals throughout the country had signed the 44-hour week contracts with employers including job printing shops in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Indianapolis, but in several cities of the west and south strikes were expected.

In New Orleans 200 printers announced they would strike, affecting twenty-three firms and in St. Louis more than half of the 250 job shops faced prospects of a strike.

Confer With Davis

No announcement was made at International headquarters of the Typographical union at Indianapolis of the results of the conference with Secretary of Labor Davis and employing printers at Washington.

In Denver 900 printers announced a strike effective today and in Salt Lake 130 voted not to report for work today. Four hundred printers in San Francisco voted to strike.

In Albany, N. Y., 1,200 job printers are affected by a failure to effect a 44-hour week agreement.

The strike also spread to Canada, job printers in Halifax and newspaper printers in St. Johns, N. F., voting a strike. Newspaper offices in Chambersburg, Lancaster and Butler, Pa., and Glens Falls, N. Y., were tied up by strikes, but one paper in Lancaster used electrotypes made from typewritten copy for Monday's issue.

20,000 Out in York State

ALBANY, N. Y.—About 20,000 union workmen in the printing, building and paper trades in Northern and Western New York were idle Monday, the result of strikes.

The building workers refused to accept wage reductions of 10 to 25 per cent, the papermakers rejected a proposal to reduce their wages 50 per cent and the printers stopped work because their demands for a 44-hour week were not accepted.

New York Shops Accept

NEW YORK.—The 44-hour week has been granted the 15,000 printers employed in the book and job printing plants in New York city, effective at once, the Employing Printers' league announced Monday.

An Associated Typographical Union, No. 6 (Big Six) approved the agreement no trouble is expected. The question of wage cuts still is pending. The wage arbitration is unofficially reported to have agreed upon a 12 per cent wage reduction.

Spreads to Canada

MONTREAL.—Employers in the photo-engraving departments of most printing establishments here went on strike Monday for a 44-hour week and a $40 a week wage.

ULTIMATUM DEMANDS FLAT "YES" TO ENTIRE REPARATIONS DEMAND ON PAIN OF ARMY-NAVY ACTION

Immediate Occupation of Ruhr Basin is Held Off By British Insistence but Total Amount of Claims Against Germany is Increased; France Begins to Move Troops Toward the German Frontier.

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Germany must give by May 12, a categorical answer—yes or no—to the allied reparations demands, or suffer the infliction of military and naval penalties, according to the terms of an ultimatum drawn up by the allied foreign ministers Monday and approved in principle by the supreme council.

The allied ultimatum provides that Germany should be advised of the allied terms four days from today and then would have six days or until May 12 within which to give answer, yes or no, without conditions, the negotiations being considered at an end.

The terms of the ultimatum were being discussed Monday afternoon by allied experts who were to report to the supreme council at 5 p. m.

The terms already agreed upon include provision for guarantees and for penalties to be enforced from time to time should Germany fail to meet the conditions.

Allied Council Restrains France But Increases German War-Bill

LONDON.—Delay in the commencement of military operations, but a closed door to anything but a flat surrender from Germany—this is the present aspect of the reparations crisis as a result of the meeting of the allied supreme council now in progress in London.

The French insistence upon immediate seizure of the coal fields of Westphalia has been restrained, pending the sending of the ultimatum giving Germany twelve days in which to signify her willingness to pay the war-bill, but on the other hand the bill has been increased. The compromise offered to Germany in the Paris session of the council in January has been increased to a capital sum of 132,000,000,000 gold marks, the full amount which the reparations commission has decided that Germany owes as the result of the war. Unless this bill is accepted by Germany, to be paid as and when the allies direct, all bars will be down as to the use of any "sanctions"—coercive measures—which may be found necessary. This will be the message of the ultimatum to Germany now being prepared.

Britain, although holding out for delay of the French program of seizure of the Ruhr basin, has agreed to support the program with naval demonstrations in the North sea if the ultimatum fails to force Germany to accept the bill. British troops will probably not be used.

France, although up to the time of the council meeting determined to move troops at once into the Ruhr, has announced that about twelve days will be necessary to make arrangements for the military movement. "My back is against the wall," said Premier Briand in London, declaring that nothing would be satisfactory except German "acceptance pure and simple, of the figures fixed by the reparations commission, and also acceptance of the modalities for payment, which the experts of the commission are now drawing up."

BRITAIN TO BACK FRENCH MOVE BY SEA DEMONSTRATION

French Troops Begin to Move; Expect Call of 1919 Class to Colors

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Great Britain will make a naval demonstration if Germany refuses to yield to the allies' conditions in the reparations issue, it was stated here Monday. The demonstration, which would not take the form of a blockade, would probably occur in the North sea, it was added.

French to Call 1919 Class

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—Orders for the mobilization of the class of 1919, which would take part in the possible occupation of the Ruhr district of Germany, were expected to be issued here today.

Negrees are not expected to be included in the forces sent to the Ruhr. The French government is proceeding with the preliminaries necessary to the occupation of the Ruhr valley should that step be ordered.

Troops on the Move

A brigade of cavalry was retraining today at Meaux to join a large detachment of infantry already on the way from Lyons; in addition to artillery from Vincennes and other garrisons now on the move.

The understanding in official circles here is that nothing can now prevent completion of the French plans for mobilization of the necessary forces for the occupation and that the actual occupation can be prevented only by Germany giving ample guarantees that she will pay according to the decisions of the reparations commission.

Such acceptance by Germany is entirely unexpected in political and official circles here and an order mobilizing 150,000 men of the class of 1919 is expected at any moment.

STEEL TRUST HEADS CONFERRING ON PLAN FOR WAGE REVISION

BOSTON, Mass.—In the ninth inning of Monday's game between the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox, Babe Ruth made his sixth home run of the season.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON.—In the absence of official information, all comment on the allied ultimatum to Germany was confined to the allied supreme council. The ultimatum was withheld Monday by the state department. It was not so far as the United States was concerned, the situation was not so serious as Saturday night when it was made clear that the American government would determine its policy.

VOTE OF ASSEMBLY LEAVES INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION BROKE

Appropriations Shut off When Lower House Turns Down Senate Bill

$285,000 ASKED FOR WORK OF THE BOARD NEXT YEAR

Appropriation Includes $50,000 for Employment Offices

MADISON, Wis.—Members of the assembly Monday (yesterday) in non-concurring in the senate bill carrying an appropriation of $285,000 per year for the industrial commission. They have left this department with practically no funds for the next biennium. Non-concurrence of this bill was carried in the belief that this would leave the industrial commission with the same funds as for the current year, but it now develops that the two principal appropriations to this department are not continuing. The only continuing appropriations to the industrial commission are the fees collected from private employment agencies, from boiler and elevator inspections, and from the sale of transcripts, totalling all together a little over $1,000 per year.

The appropriations to the industrial commission for the current year are $214,665 for general purposes, $50,000 for the eleven free employment offices of the state and the fees collected. There are also available balances from previous years totalling $20,000. The total funds available to the industrial commission for this year, are somewhat more than $285,000. Of this amount the commission is spending approximately $270,000 this year.

Cut Down Requests
The industrial commission made requests for a total appropriation of $850,000 for the next biennium—$225,000 per year. The board of public affairs, however, recommended that the commission be given only the same amount as it is spending this year, $225,000 for general purposes, $50,000 for the employment offices, and the fees collected, a total of $279,000.

After a strong plea by the commission for additional employees to handle more quickly contested compensation cases and for additional building and boiler inspectors, the finance committee recommended an increase in the appropriation for general purposes to $250,000, leaving the other appropriations as at present, including $50,000 for the employment offices. This bill passed the senate with but three dissenting votes and the assembly with eleven nays.

Blaire Asks Recall
When this bill came to the governor he asked that it be recalled because he thought that the appropriations for general purposes and for the employment offices should be combined and that the total could then be reduced from $300,000 to $285,000. Upon reconsideration, however, the majority of the finance committee decided to put up to the governor a bill combining these two appropriations, but carrying a total of only $250,000, of which not more than $25,000 might be spent for the employment offices. This represented a cut of $25,000 below the present rate of expenditure, and would compel closing the smaller employment offices, Ashland, Rhinelander, Wausau, Eagle and either Sheboygan, La Crosse or Oshkosh. Four members of the committee, including both chairmen, dissented and stood out for an appropriation of $285,000 and the fees collected, which is approximately the same amount as is available to the industrial commission for this year. This proposal was adopted by the senate almost unanimously with only two senators voting in the negative. The assembly, however, killed the bill, 55 to 30, under the impression that it carried a great increase and that non-concurrence would leave the commission the same funds as at present. Of the 55 members voting against the $285,000 appropriations, 37 voted a $300,000 appropriation when the bill was passed the first time.

Never Exceeded Funds

Many of the members who voted to kill the appropriation bill, say that they have no fault to find with the industrial commission and certainly do not wish to see it abolished. This commission is one of the few departments which lived within its appropriations and which has never asked for any help from the emergency fund. Friends of the commission, consequently, argue that it should not be cut below the amount it now has available, when every other department whose appropriation bills have been acted upon at this session has been increased.

To fight film

Dental science, after diligent research, has found ways to fight film on teeth. Careful tests have proved them beyond question. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a scientific tooth paste—Pepsodent. So all may regularly apply them. To countless homes they have brought already a new era in teeth cleaning.

How film ruins

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary dentifrice does not effectively combat it. So, despite the tooth brush, it has caused tremendous damage.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

It breeds millions of germs and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Pepsodent combats these film-caused troubles as nothing else has done.

Combats acid

Pepsodent also multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

In these ways it acts as fruit acids do. With every use it multiplies Nature's teeth-protecting forces. Old methods had the opposite effect.

Here's Proof of ALASKA'S Efficiency

Every Alaska Refrigerator, every day it is in use, demonstrates its superiority. The well-known fact that "ice lasts longer in the Alaska" is convincing proof that it is a good refrigerator. If it keeps ice cold, it keeps food cold.

Women especially appreciate the beautiful interior construction which makes the Alaska so easy to keep always sweet, clean and immaculate. Seamless, White Porcelain linings with highly glazed surface and round corners, or sanitary White Enamel linings.

The secret of Alaska's dry, clean cold is in its scientific construction. Its "cubed" cork and "confined" air walls provide the most effective insulation known. They keep the cold in and the heat out.

But the Alaska does more than merely keep foods cold. The continuous circulation of dry, cold air, keeps them fresh and sweet.

Come in and let us show you why the Alaska is your best refrigerator investment. We have the size and style which will exactly fit your needs.

Super-Conscience

WE have been taken to task for our editorial warring censorship of movie films by readers who set up the proposition that there are producers and exhibitors who pander to the carnal minded. Doubtless a censorship would stop these, and were that all it would stop, we would heartily subscribe. But the censorious mind is always ambitious. Let go, it would dictate its neighbor's necktie and perhaps revise the Ten Commandments. That it would efface evil by denying knowledge of its existence in public exhibitions is heavy tax upon our strain of frankness, but that it would assume to say for all of us what is evil and what is good, is rather too much. To set up such a body carries the assumption of the existence of super-people, and to give to their word the finality of a court of last resort is, to our notion, to surrender one of the "inalienable rights" established in the foundations of the American democracy.

The assumption that pictures are not getting better, and that the public demand is not for cleaner pictures is, we believe, an error arrived at by reasoning from particular instances to a general conclusion. At least, we can answer it by the same method, if that proves anything. Who gets better houses than Charles Ray, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Marguerite Clark? Clean as a hound's tooth, every one of them! How about "Humoresque" as a house-packer? Exhibitors have organized the country over in the interest of clean pictures. This country did not "go dry" because of a law. It went dry because communities and finally states, one after another, "went dry" sentimentally. The laws were the results, the expressions of public sentiment of a people turning to better and cleaner things. They were the confirmation of a reform already consummated in the public conscience.

Life is a strange mixture of good and bad. Good and evil are not definable by rule and line, for each individual's conception comes from his viewpoint interpreted by his conscience. Given honest and clean-minded censors, two of them would seldom agree. Once established, the censorship would eliminate certain fast-disappearing major evils. Then it would turn to details, to shades and angles of personal opinion as to what is good and what is not, and Mrs. Grundy would come into her own. Not long ago a woman's club in a western city was asked by a movie manager to pass judgment upon an "up-lift" picture, displaying the dregs as a "moral lesson" and advertising to catch the morbid shakels. They divided about evenly, one group demanding that the picture be shown to save the youth of the town, and the other group insisting with equal vehemence that the youth of the town should not be exposed to a shocking display of vulgarity and vice.

If they are anything, the movies are life—historical and current—and a censorship "holding life up by the tail" would skin it to get rid of its flesh.

Main Street Again

AND still they read Main Street, in street cars and hotels, every one from shop girls to bankers.

What do they get out of it, these various peoples, and what does it mean to them? Is it like reading letters from home, that gossipy, old-wives style? Or do they draw some meaning from that intolerant picture of life? For Main Street is essentially a study in intolerance. The intolerance of the beauty lover, for those who see no light, the intolerance of the conventional for those who do and dare, the intolerance of age for youth, and one sex for another.

Sinclair Lewis, himself, is the most intolerant of these. For he is the artist, condemning all those who do not create, or strive to create. The book is great because it does bare a little section of village life to the public gaze, as no one else in this country has ever dared it. The central theme is the struggle of the man and woman to achieve happiness in marriage. The man is a type of American man to be found anywhere, totally lacking in aesthetic sense, lacking in sensitiveness, lacking in imagination, yet virile and forceful and earnest, living for his family and his work and his play. The woman, alive to all forms of beauty, strives to attain them, and struggles against a black wall of intolerance.

Two things, here, Mr. Lewis in his intolerance, has overlooked, or possibly chosen to leave out for the sake of unity. One is the saving grace of humor that lightens so many marriages, and the other is that rich, human love of kind that is still to be found in town and city, possibly more often than not in Main street.

Though Zona Gale may have been an extreme sentimentalist, before she reformed and brought forth Lulu Bett, yet there must have been some slight bit of truth in her earlier stories of Friendship Village. Surely those were not just fairy tales entirely, those stories of warm and loving hearts, village stories as intimate as those of Main Street.

For every one who has lived in a small town has realized something which Sinclair Lewis has overlooked—the underlying kindness of humanity. Every one has known that charitable motherly soul, who would do anything in her power for anyone. Yet she has no part in this book. From start to finish Main Street is the correct Russian grey. There are no rosy lights to cast a glow over any corner. Yet Carol saw the gold on the grain and the glint of the lake when she returned. Why were they not there before?

Main Street is surely more true to life than Friendship Village. But is there not some trace of Friendship Village in every Main street that Mr. Lewis either has not wished to show, or else has been too intolerant to see?

Mr. Lewis is the artist holding up hands of horror at every trace of ugliness. He strikes a strong note by so doing. The book is tremendously forceful. And if all the thousands who read Main Street will see as in a mirror their own peculiar intolerance, and so be brought to a broader viewpoint, he has accomplished more than if he had given us the truth.

Perhaps that is what he wished to do.

Funny, isn't it? The fellow who lives near the seashore is planning to go to the mountains and the man in the mountains plans a seashore vacation.

Girls are to wear waterproof bathing suits this summer. Hence they may risk getting near enough the water to be splashed.

The Girl Next Door suggests that a perfectly lovely bathing suit can be made of the woolen hose she wore last winter.

Probably the fellow who has a bushel of German marks laughs at the worthless stone money used in Yap.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

May first was ushered into La Crosse in the midst of one of the heaviest snowfalls on record for the month of May. Snow started falling early this morning and continued until almost noon. It was wet and heavy and as a result a great amount of damage was done to trees and awnings.

Eddie Konetchy, the local boy who is playing the first sack position for the St. Louis Cardinals is not only popular on the diamond, according to the St. Louis Star, but is also one of the best liked young men in the southern city. Eddie has been awarded a Mitchell roadster by the St. Louis Star. He was third in a popularity contest conducted by that paper.

At the school board meeting last night President F. A. Cotton and Professor Sanders of the normal school, introduced a plan whereby practice teachers who are about to graduate from the normal would be placed in the grades of the public schools of the city. The plan was referred to the teachers' committee which will decide whether or not to adopt the plan. If it is adopted the new work will start in the fall.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

An electric railway project from Charles City, Ia., to La Crosse is on foot. A stock company has been organized in the Iowa city and a committee appointed to solicit the right of way between Charles City and La Crosse. The promoters of the line have in view the booming of the country through which the line will extend.

So much trouble has arisen over assessing the expense of sprinkling the city's streets that the council has ordered sprinkling at the city's expense stopped. Until petitions have been handed to the council signed by a majority of the property owners on the streets desired sprinkled no sprinkling will be done. Already merchants complain of damage to their goods by the dust and it is believed it will not be long before the council will be flooded with petitions from all parts of the city to have the streets sprinkled again at the property owners' expense.

The two massive brick buildings on Second and State streets, formerly occupied by the La Crosse Lumber Oil works which was absorbed by the oil trust, have been abandoned by the trust and will be offered for sale.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The La Crosse Bar Association met this morning to consider the question of starting a day calendar in circuit court for this county. A committee was appointed to draft a proposed rule of court fixing the days and hours for holding court. The association contemplates the purchase of a bar association library for the use in common by the members.

A large crowd is expected here during the Catholic convention to be held here the second week in May. The Chicago, Burlington and Northern railway has announced that the fare will be cut in half to and from all stations in Wisconsin during the convention.

The Order of the Eastern Star has not yet been organized in this city although there are thirty ladies who have signified a desire to join. Deputy Grand Patron Fred Ring will take steps to get an order established here this month. It will be the thirteenth order organized in this state.

A. A. McIntyre, for some time foreman of the composing room of the Tribune and Leader, has resigned his position and will leave tomorrow with Mrs. McIntyre for Arcadia where he will start farming.

"I'm well," Sarah called from the top of the stairway. "I'll be down in a minute."

For an hour or more they sat by the fireside while Harry told of his adventures in the great swamps of southern Florida.

"I've done my share of the fighting," he said at length. "You going north tomorrow to find him and her mother?"

"I shall want you to serve a complaint on one Lionel Davis," said Mr. Lincoln.

"I have one of my own to serve on him," Harry answered. "But I hope that our case can be settled out of court."

"I think that I'll go with you as far as Tazewell county and draw the papers there," said Lincoln.

When the latter had left for his lodgings and Joe and his mother had gone to bed, Samson told Harry the details of his visit to Chicago.

"She may have taken the disease and died with it before now," said the young man. "I'll be on my way to Honey Creek in the morning. If she's sick I'll take care of her. I'm not going to worry about Davis. But when I get there I wouldn't wonder if he'd have to worry a little about me."

CHAPTER XXII

Wherein Abe Lincoln Reveals His Method of Conducting a Lawsuit in the Case of Henry Brimstead Et Al, vs. Lionel Davis.

They found many of Davis' notes in Tazewell county. Abe Lincoln's complaint represented seven clients and a sum exceeding twenty thousand dollars.

"Now, Harry, you don't like Davis and I can't blame you for it," said Honest Abe before they parted. "Don't spoil our case by trying to take it out of his hide. First we've got to take it out of his pocket. When I get through there may not be any hide on him worth speaking of, but if there is you can have it and welcome."

With the papers in his pocket Harry went on to the Honey Creek settlement. There he found that the plague had spent itself and that him had gone to a detention camp outside Chicago. He rode on to the camp but was not permitted to see her, the regulations having become very strict. In the city he went to the store of Eli Fredenberg. The merchant received him with enthusiasm. Chicago had begun to recover from the panic. Trade was lively. Eli wanted Harry to go to work until he was prepared for the law.

"You must stay here until you had got a wife already," said the thoughtful Eli. "It is bad for you and him to be not married so much."

The young man favored the commercial and the sentimental suggestions of Eli. He had long felt the lure of that promising little city on the lake shore.

"I wish you'd take this complaint and serve it on Davis," he said. "I don't want to see him if I can help it. If you don't mind, you can tell him that I've come to life and am here in the city and that if he kills me again he'd better do it while I'm looking. It would be more decent."

Eli was delighted with a task which promised a degree of discomfort to the man who had endeavored to ruin him. Harry spent the afternoon with Mrs. Kelson and Bill's baby boy. The good woman was much excited by the arrival of the young soldier.

"We have had a terrible year," she said. "We couldn't have lived through it without the help of a friend. Bill went away to take care of the sick in the smallpox neighborhood. She was rather discouraged. Our friend, Mr. Davis, is in love with her. She promised to marry him. It seemed to be the only way out of our troubles. But she will not even write to him now."

"I shall not try to increase her troubles, but I shall prevent her from marrying Davis if I can," said Harry.

"Why?"

"Because I think he is dishonest. He has convinced me that all the reports are wrong," Mrs. Kelson declared. "I think that he is one of the kindest and best of men."

"I shall not argue with you as to the character of my rival," Harry answered. "The facts will be on record one of these days and then you can form your own judgment. I hope you won't mind my coming here to see you and the baby now and then."

"You are always welcome. But Mr. Davis comes often and feeling as you do it might be unpleasant for you to meet him."

"I would. I'll keep away until the air clears," said Harry.

He wrote a very tender letter to Bill that day. He told her that he had come to Chicago to live so that he might be near her and ready to help her if she needed help. "The same old love is in my heart that made me want you for my wife long ago, that has filled my letters and sustained me in every hour of peril," he wrote.

"If you really think that you must marry Davis, I ask you at least to wait for the developments of a suit which Abe Lincoln is bringing in behalf of many citizens of Tazewell county. It is likely that we shall know more than we do before that case ends. I saw your beautiful little boy. He looks so much like you that I long to steal him and keep him with me."

In a few days he received this brief reply:

HOME WORK PLAY

Why You Should Watch the Ball

Written especially for the Boys and Girls Newspaper by

Bill ("Baby Doll") Jacobson

Centerfielder of the St. Louis Browns

It was in a game we played with Boston several years ago that I saw the "hidden ball trick" worked to perfection. The last of the ninth inning had been reached and the score stood 3 to 2 in our favor. One of the Boston players had met the ball for three bases. He had no more than slid into third and dusted himself off than Jimmie Austin, one of our players, caught him off the bag and tagged him out—all because the Boston man hadn't kept his eye on the ball, which Jimmie held.

Though I have always kept in mind the fact that there is nothing in baseball more important than keeping your eye on the ball, I must admit that on this occasion I was as dumbfounded as any of the other players and some ten or twelve thousand fans who saw the trick worked. Hardly anyone except Jimmie himself, and certainly not the Boston player, knew just where the ball was.

That illustrates what a task it is to keep track of the ball. In a moment of excitement a player may forget about it—with a possible result such as I described above. But even the best of us get caught off our guard once in a while.

BIRTH OF A NEW AMBITION

(By Dr. William E. Barton)

I made a little journey, a few days ago. As I presented my ticket, the conductor said, in a genial tone:

"Galesburg! Well, now, that's fortunate! We're going right there!"

I told him I should esteem it a favor if I might ride with him, and he told me to make myself at home.

Our conversation did not delay him a single second. He talked only while he was taking up my ticket and punching my trip-slip. Then he passed on. But twenty minutes later, when he had taken up all the tickets, he came back, and stopped for a moment.

"Did you read in the paper this morning about that broker?" he asked. "He was married, and had children, and he brought home another woman, and he told his wife that she could stay if she wanted to, but this new woman was to be boss. What do you think ought to be done with a man like that? He ought to have a rope tied around his neck and be dropped off the bridge into the river!"

Again he passed on, but as he went, he said, confidentially, "They are serving strawberry shortcake in the diner today!"

I thought much of this conductor. He was sixty-five, I judge from his face and the gold stripes on his arm, but he was alert, vigorous and hu-

2—Change "fly" to "bee" in four moves.

3—Change "wren" to "crow" in ten moves.

Note: A "move" is made by substituting one letter in the word for another. For instance, in No. 1, the first move from "wolf" is "golf." Change only one letter at a time.

Cut a bar of good quality soap in fine shavings. Dissolve them on the stove in about a quart of clean water. Heat the water with a slow fire.

Allow the dissolved soap to become cool, and then pour in enough French chalk, or whiting, to make a creamy substance. The French chalk may be had at the druggist's, but if he does not keep it in stock he probably can tell you where you can get some. Pour the mixture into medium sized bottles.

Apply the cleaner to silverware with a piece of chamois skin or soft flannel. Rub a little over the silver, and then rinse it off in warm water. With another piece of flannel or chamois, which is kept dry for the purpose, rub the silver till it shines brightly.

BEACH-JONES SCORE HEAVILY IN OPENER OF NEW RUN HERE

"That Girl Patsy" Brings Out S. R. O. Sign at the La Crosse Theater

Before a house whose size and enthusiasm spoke of the splendid reputation the company made for itself during its previous visit last winter, the Beach-Jones Stock company opened for its summer run at the La Crosse theater on Sunday, with "That Girl Patsy" as the opening bill. Scores of people were turned away from the opening performance for lack of seats.

"The Little Redhead"—Helen Sitzer—further endeared herself to her hundreds of admirers in La Crosse by her performance in this clever three-act comedy drama. As an incorrigible young gambler of New York's east side Miss Sitzer was in her element, her part being full of bright lines and the "gag" in which she is at her best.

Messrs. Beach and Jones have together an exceptionally clever bunch of stock artists, several new faces appearing in the cast last evening which has strengthened the show since their appearance here last winter. Among the new members are Ralph Hayes, who played the part of "Professor Orlando Powers," a character comedy part which won him instant favor with the audience, Jack Harvey as Fordham the butler, Irene Harper as Julia Warren, and Irving O'Donoghue, a youthful product of old Ireland as Fred Coulson.

Others in the cast who appeared to advantage were Guy Beach as Phillip Greer, Helen K. May as Mrs. Robert Warren, Hazel Baker as Violet Mannors, Charles Rummel as Robert Warren, Sr., and Milton Goodford, the handsome leading man who won many friends and admirers during the former engagement here, all very fine work as the younger Warren.

"That Girl Patsy" is a play containing everything which goes to make a real dramatic success. Plenty of comedy, suspense and several dramatic scenes of intensity.

"Cheating Cheaters," announced as the bill for the last half of the week, is a comedy of crook life with a most unusual plot and a cast which gives every member of the company a part suited to their various abilities. "That Girl Patsy" will be shown tonight and tomorrow night with a new show on Wednesday.

BIG PRIZE GOES BEGGING

The London county council, about a year ago, offered a prize amounting to about five thousand dollars for the design of an ideal street car and the competition was advertised all over Great Britain, and the Colonies, United States and France. There were 76 responses but the commission having charge of the award have decided that none of the suggestions received was worthy of the prize. In their report they say the bulk of the candidates have deemed it sufficient to send one or more rough sketches, with incomplete descriptions of varying length. In these cases, no attempt has been made to work out the proposals, and where it has been found possible to develop them, they have been proved to be impracticable of application. There is a conspicuous dearth of proposals in respect to the electrical equipment and trucks or bogies. So much so that, in a majority of cases, a complete lack of electrical and mechanical knowledge is apparent with regard to these most important features of car design.

Moreover, many competitors have made suggestions incompatible with the local regulations, and even with the physical conditions.

Among the entrants at a United States representing agency in a western state recently was A. Angel of Paradise, Kansas.

'Twixt Hawk and Handsaw

By BARBARA KERR

She was clad in unionalls, had on a corduroy cap drawn down to her ears and was saving away in a most workmanlike manner, taking a fraction of an inch off Mrs. Marvin's bathroom door, which had always refused to shut properly—also she was whistling.

The Martins, mother and daughter, Caroline, lived at the edge of town and as they took care of their car, resorted to unionalls frequently, but as Lawrence Sinclair made mental note, they did not whistle to advertise, the fact. He knew it was not Caroline; moreover, he knew exactly who it was, it was Bert Baneroff. They were well enough acquainted to have had many tills. Bert was inclined to be independent, had taken manual training at school and could handle tools with the best of them. Knowing this Mrs. Marvin asked her to fix the door when she ran in to see Caroline.

Bert promptly donned the unionalls, removed the door from its hinges, took it to the back porch and was working on it when the Sinclair lumber truck drove up and Lawrence alighted, intending not to notice who it was, he said:

"Please ask your mother, where I shall put the lumber."

"My mother doesn't care Mr. Sinclair, so perhaps you better ask Mrs. Marvin."

Lawrence in passing struck his foot against one of her tools. "Beg pardon! What was that?"

"Oh, that's a jack plane. When you grow up to be a big man you may learn the difference, perhaps 'twixt a hawk and a handsaw," said Bert, as though addressing a little boy.

Further amenities were saved by Mrs. Marvin's appearance. She walked down the porch, showing him where to put the lumber, hugging a moment to observe: "Queer what tomboyish tastes that girl has! Now, my Caroline is so different, so refined, I don't see what she finds to like about her."

Bert heard but gave no sign she knew what was vexing the soul of Mrs. Marvin. Lawrence Sinclair was the greatest catch in the set in which Caroline and Bert moved. Bert thought he knew this too well. Lawrence, surprised at her remark, knew what to attribute it to and answered: "Seems to know how to fix your door, though, Mrs. Marvin."

"Yes," she admitted, chagrined, "you've got to acknowledge that if she ain't refined she knows the difference 'twixt a hawk and a handsaw, if you know what that means?"

"My folks were Yorkshire," replied Lawrence, turning away. He felt that Bert was hearing the end of the conversation and he was ashamed. He would have halted a moment as he passed her, but Bert whistled a bit louder, squinted along the edge of the door to see if it were true, but would not look his way.

Angrily he climbed into his seat and drove off. "She needn't have whistled, anyway," he thought crossly.

Bert finished her job and said crisply to Caroline: "Your mother doesn't think much of my talents, but the door shuts."

Caroline had some inkling of what had transpired. She had seen the two playing at cross-purposes before. "I'm not such a fool as mother might make me out, Bert," she said, as she slipped an arm through her friend's to walk with her a short distance. "Besides, that secret I wanted to tell you: I'm engaged to Harry Belknap, so she need not bother about Lawrence."

Bert's good humor restored, she went her way looking for her coveted business opportunity. She felt she had found it when the same paper that told of Lawrence's accepting a position in a nearby city advertised the fact that the Sinclair Lumber Company wanted a bookkeeper.

She went direct to Mr. Sinclair, who, though surprised, noted with admiration her business-like manner, her slim, almost boyish athletic figure. "But isn't a lumber yard a rather queer place for a young lady who doesn't know the difference—"

"Oh, but I do. I know what you were going to say, and I do know the difference 'twixt a hawk and a handsaw, and I know a lot about woods and your business—"

"All right; go in there and bring me some oak, pine and walnut."

"Needn't leave the room to show you." And Bert took a small knife from her pocket and scratched a bit of paint from a file of pigeonholes. "This desk has a thin veneer of walnut, a soft pine lining, and that chair bottom is oak saved the wrong way of the grain."

"You win!" smiled Mr. Sinclair. "But why this sort of work?"

Bert explained that she was a collector of old furniture and that it was her ambition some day to own and operate a shop for repairing, refinishing and duplicating antique pieces. She was so enthusiastic that Mr. Sinclair was moved to ask:

"Do you suppose such a shop could be run in conjunction with a lumber yard?" Bert beamed. "Oh, Mr. Sinclair, I'm sure it could, and I've a lot of other ideas, too."

"Save 'em and report to me in a month," he urged.

At the month's end Bert had found where they could get their initial lot of period furniture, an expert wood finisher and the best market for cedar, declaring that not another bill of house lumber should be sold unless enough cedar went with it to line at least one closet.

"Good work! My wife was scolding me this morning because she had no cedar closet," declared Mr. Sinclair.

So Bert's dream became a reality, and she was happy. Till one day her employer laid a letter on her desk. Lawrence wanted to come home and go into business with his father.

"Then you'll not need me," her white lips commented.

"Couldn't run without you?" exclaimed Mr. Sinclair. But Bert was not convinced, and cried herself sick when she got home, so for two days she did not go to work. The second evening she had a called—Lawrence Sinclair.

"Father sent me to see how you were and to ask if you'd take me in your department. If not, I'm out of a job," he pleaded. "He says you're the only girl he ever knew who always knows the difference 'twixt hawk and handsaw. I always knew it, but was too stubborn to admit. Forgive me and take me—will you?"

"Is this a business proposition?" stammered Bert as he tried to take her hands.

"Surest thing you know! I'm pleading for a life job. I might not have been so hasty, but your white face upset me entirely," and Lawrence took the old-time lover's method for coaxing the color back to white cheeks.

ELECTRIC FAN BECOMES A HEATER

The electric heater which has been recently introduced in the shape of a copper reflector of concave lines with a heating element in the center has been found to be well suited for the purpose of warming up a cool room and they have been generally availed of but there has been one criticism and that is that its warmth has been limited to the space immediately in front of it. One of these devices has been designed with the object of mounting it upon an oscillating fan so that its genial glow may be felt in a wide space rather than in a restricted

BUSINESS HOPEFUL SAYS EVERINGHAM BACK FROM EAST

Feeling of Optimism Prevails
Says C. of C. Secretary Returning from Atlantic City

"A feeling of optimism prevails throughout the east," declared P. C. Everingham, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce on his return Monday from Atlantic City, N. J., where he attended the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. "Although there is this general feeling of optimism business men, merchants and manufacturers exhibit a degree of caution about embarking in new enterprises."

"Business in the east appears to be convinced that the commercial world will be close to normal in a few months throughout the United States. I talked with 20 secretaries of commercial clubs in cities in 20 states in the east, middle west and south and they declared that the sentiment in their respective towns was toward resumption of business on a nearly normal basis."

"I will be frank in saying that there were enough pessimists at the meeting to make themselves noticeable. However, they seemed to show inability to get away from present conditions. When pinned down to just what they meant by their dreary outlook for business, they would say: 'Well, you see how business is now. It is going to be an awful hard job to get it back to normal.'"

"Another situation that was strong in evidence was the determination to look after the welfare of American manufacturers and merchants whether foreign countries paid their war debts or not."

PALMER PURCHASES TROTTER STALLION FROM ILLINOIS MAN

Harry A. Palmer, noted horseman, has recently purchased a trotting stallion "Danville 1," reputed to be the best blood in the country, from the John H. Clark Ohio Valley Stock farm at Toledo, Ohio.

The stallion was sired by Newton King, 2:12 1/4, dam by Laura Gaynor, with a two year record of 2:20. The horse purchased by Mr. Palmer has done the mile over a half mile track in 2:12 1/4.

In a letter to the Tribune, Mr. Clark, proprietor of the Ohio Valley Stock farm, stated that people who know horses will be able to appreciate the value of the stallion recently sold to Mr. Palmer. Mr. Clark stated that at his age of seventy-four years, he was not able to give the horse the proper attention and therefore disposed of it to the local buyer.

KNOX RESOLUTION FOR GERMAN PEACE IS SENT TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON.—The Knox resolution, declaring peace with Germany and Austria, passed in the senate late Saturday by a vote of 49 to 23, was sent to the house Monday. It is not expected to be called for a week or more as it first goes to the foreign affairs committee, where efforts likely will be made to amend it so as to declare peace without repudiating the war resolutions.

In the senate, beginning Monday, the emergency tariff and immigration bills have the right of way.

Woman Will Be "Pied Piper" in War on Rodents

War against rats, with a woman in charge

Miss Kathryn Kauffman, the "Pied Piper," co-operating with the bureau of biological survey, department of agriculture and the city health department will conduct a campaign in La Crosse for the extermination of rats. She has been in Minneapolis for several weeks, arriving in the city today.

Barium carbonate is a poison recommended by the United States public health service as "sure death" to the rodents and Miss Kauffman will demonstrate to individuals, proprietors of mills, warehouses and other establishments how to use the poison. The chemical is slow acting and sets up conditions which impel the rats to seek the open air, thus avoiding the annoyance caused when they die in their burrows and runways.

Miss Kauffman has conducted campaigns in Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Minneapolis and other cities. Letters from business men and officials of the cities show the success of her work. L. F. Rota, who is in La Crosse arranging for the war on rodents, will answer questions regarding the campaign. He can be found at the city health department or at the La Crosse Hotel.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Railroad officials Monday began an investigation into the wreck Sunday night of train No. 109 on the Minneapolis, St. Paul and North Star railroad near Rockford, twenty miles west of here, in which more than a score of persons were more or less seriously injured.

Sixteen of the injured were brought to a Minneapolis hospital early for treatment. Four were seriously hurt and their recovery is doubtful.

Only the names of two of the injured could be learned this morning. A broken rail is believed to have caused the wreck. The three cars of the rear train, bound from the Twin Cities to Winnipeg, overturned. The injured were given first aid treatment at a farm-house. The less seriously hurt continued on their journey, while the others were brought to Minneapolis.

PROPOSALS FOR TAX REVISION ARE MADE BY TREASURY HEAD

Urges Substitute for Excess Profits Tax, Repeal of Luxury Tax and Imposition of New Tax

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressional committees charged with tax revision had before them Monday treasury suggestions on which they may base future legislation. Secretary Mellon has transmitted four specific propositions, in a letter to chairmen of the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee as the principal basis of revision.

These proposals include a modified tax on corporate profits or a flat additional income tax on corporations in lieu of the present excess profits tax; readjustment of income tax rates so that 10 income will pay more than forty per cent this year and 25 per cent thereafter; repeal of the so-called luxury taxes and the taxes on soft drinks; and imposition of sufficient new and additional taxes of wide application, such as increased stamp taxes or license taxes on the use of automobiles to bring the total revenue from taxes to four billion dollars after making the other changes suggested.

Mr. Mellon also made known to the committees the treasury policy of refunding outstanding short term debt, including the Victory notes into government securities maturing between 1925 and 1928 as the solution of the problem of meeting maturities aggregating $7,500,000,000 in the next thirty months. The program outlined by Mr. Mellon contemplates actual retirement of the short term debt as a whole by the time the third liberty loan falls due in 1928.

DEMANDS $10,000 FOR INJURY WHEN HIT BY MILWAUKEE TRAIN

Irene Miller has filed suit against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad for $10,000 damages for injuries sustained when she was struck by a passenger train at the Liberty street crossing on Dec. 20, last year. Miss Miller was on her way to work in the rubber mills when she was run down. Her hip was fractured. It is charged, and she also alleges, to have received other injuries. The complaint declares there is no waterman nor gates at the crossing.

CAR SEALS BROKEN TWO ARE HELD AT CENTRAL STATION

Stanley Walchack, Milwaukee, and William Lyons, Clinton, Ind., picked up in the Milwaukee yards on a north side Sunday night, are being held at Central station as suspects in connection with the breaking of bus car seals on a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul freight train, according to a report at the station Monday.

The pair was supposed to have "hammered" their way to this city on the train in which the cars were opened, according to the police.

The Beads of Borneo
The natives of Borneo are the greatest bead lovers in the world. In many instances there are collections of beads which have been in one family for centuries and which cannot be bought, they are so cherished by the owners. An examination of these collections often reveals some very precious gems which have been cut by the native artisans in bead shape.

GIVE ONE DAY'S SPENDING MONEY TO CHINESE FUND IS PLEA OF STATE COMMITTEE

MADISON, Wis.—From headquarters of the Wisconsin Committee of China Relief Fund there has gone out a state-wide appeal, reinforced by Governor Blaine in a proclamation, to give to the starving in North China the same amount of money one spends on himself in a day. From this practice, if very generally followed, is expected to come from people in Wisconsin thousands of dollars to have human lives until the harvest a few weeks hence.

China famine week, beginning Sunday, is the means by which individuals and organizations may make their contributions without any great sacrifice by donating the equivalent of some luxury item of amusement or other expense. The American committee has provided every possible practicable means for all to give what they can through channels with which they come in contact in their daily affairs. The expense of elaborate organization has been eliminated, and the maximum of relief out of every contribution will reach the famine victims in the shortest possible time.

Many Chinese are within one meal of the end of their existence, and to be effective, the relief funds must flow promptly, through the local and state committees. The harvest is still some weeks away, and at the season's end, the available supply of grain is more and more depleted. China is still looking to the people of other lands, and particularly to those of America for the means of obtaining subsistence until the time of harvest.

"I have seen the tragedy and looked it right in the eye," said Bishop W. R. Lambuth. "One thousand refugees fled from the cold in a single night in Kailan. I went to Tien Tsai. I couldn't sleep on account of the groans of the men, women and children who were lying on the stone pavements."

"I have seen large numbers of persons of every age, still clothed as during the summer, miserable, pale, emaciated—bearing on their faces the signs of long privation," said Rev. N. Baranoff, general secretary of Catholic Mission at Chongtunga. "I have seen these poor people carrying babies crying from hunger, children in rags, old men and women who have nothing more to eat. Missionaries report hundreds who have died of starvation. In one month in eleven villages 250 died of hunger."

The committee emphasizes the fact that food most suitable for the relief purposes is available in districts a few hundred miles from the boundaries of the famine area, and that relief is solely a matter of purchase money.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR AT ASCENSION DAY SERVICE ON SUNDAY

Rev. E. C. Dixon Speaks on the Miracle of the Ascension of Jesus Christ

EXPERIENCE OF GOD HELD PROMISE OF PEOPLE'S TRIUMPH

Resurrection Over Humiliation

The six knights of La Crosse Confraternity, Knights Templar, in observance of Ascension Day, worshiped with the congregation of the First Methodist church at the Sunday morning service. The choir sang two anthems, "The Heavens are Telling" and "Hallelujah Chorus." "Open the Gates of the Temple" was the appropriate selection sung by First Soloist, Rev. E. C. Dixon spoke in part as follows:

"Some events in the history of the world, very thrilling in themselves, are found later to have been of very great significance in the life of the world. Such an event was the ascension of our Lord six weeks after the resurrection. As a spectacle it was merely the going away of a man in the presence of a few companions who had accompanied their friend out to a mountain side near to Jerusalem."

"Thomas Jefferson concluded the history of Jesus with the quotation from Matthew which reads: 'There they laid Jesus, and rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre and departed.' 'That would indeed be a sad ending of the career of such a person as Jesus was. If that were all then the new clock tower of Jerusalem becomes not only the grave of a man but the burial place of a religion as well, with all the ideals it has established and the enthusiasm it has inspired. It is indeed encouraging that a great body of substantial men concerned greatly in the busy life of the world as you, Sir Knights, are have thought it worth while to observe in a special manner the anniversary of the ascension of Jesus."

Miraculous Is Presented

"The American mind does not pory readily turn to the consideration of such subjects as this for it presents us immediately with the miraculous. It may be observed however that acceptance of the miraculous does not stamp us as anti-scientific in mind or attitude toward the world. Science is organized knowledge and surely no one is so absurdly conceited as to suppose that all truth has now been organized or that the possibilities of the human mind have been exhausted."

"So that it places no strain upon the scientific mind to accept as fact items of knowledge and belief of very great consequence which as yet may not be organized fully with other items of knowledge that we possess."

"The miracle of the ascension includes an idea as to what became of the body of Jesus and as to what kind of a body he had after the resurrection. The child thinks of Jesus coming to life just as he was, perhaps something of that life has staid with us all but surely as we think about it we realize that it was something quite different."

"We are not suggesting now some-

La Crosse Folks at University

Elliott and Ruediger were both prominent factors in Wisconsin's two baseball victories of the week-end over Northwestern and Chicago, both games being won by a 7 to 1 score. Each got a three bagger in the game against the Methodists.

Art Nelson spent the week-end at Baraboo on a geology trip. He returned to Madison on Sunday.

The 1921 graduating class of La Crosse students from the university will be the largest at the June exercises. About a score of students will finish up their work in the several colleges.

The average cost to the state for each student at the university for operation, maintenance, and such ordinary capital items as books and apparatus during the five years of 1918-19 to 1922-23 will be approximately $300 per year, according to reports. The excess cost due to each non-resident student will be approximately $150 per year.

Many La Crosse people are expected to be in Madison during the commencement season in June to take part in the class reunions. This year all classes whose numbers end in 1 and 6 will have their special gatherings and committees representing the various classes are making plans for banquets, parties and stunts. The class of '06 has no living members but the class of '01 has two and the class of '03 three.

Earl Hirschheimer of La Crosse is a busy man on the campus these days taking care of the affairs of the varsity track team. Hirschheimer is manager of the squad and works in cooperation with Coach T. E. Jones, director of athletics. Merrick of Wisconsin led for first place in the pole vault at the Penn relays, Philadelphia, last Saturday with a jump of 12 feet, 7 1/2 inches. Wilder of Wisconsin tied for third place in the same event.

Couch Otto Endres' track squad of the Madison high school won a triangular track meet last Saturday from Stoughton and the Wisconsin high school.

Several La Crosse students are planning on enrolling in the 1921 summer session. Several La Crosse normal graduates who have been teaching are also making plans for enrolling at the university for the summer course.

Jack Bradley of La Crosse is doing some work with the industrial commission at the state capital.

George Krentz is now working in the department of vocational education at the state capital. He has been working under McCarthy, the new state superintendent of schools.

Wireless time signals from Arlington, Virginia now regulate the observatory clocks at the university.

Several of the exhibits which were shown at the university exposition witnessed by many La Crosse visitors have been taken to Milwaukee to be shown.

A committee of students on which Earl Hirschheimer is serving is making plans for the entertainment of Morris Meyer of Chicago, prep school sprint champion of Illinois, during the week-end of May 14 when there will be held a dual track meet with Minnesota and a baseball game with

WING IN SOUTH FOR MEETING OF U. S. BANKERS' COUNCIL

Executive Board of National Association to Confer and Play Golf at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C.—Fourteen politicians rolled into Pinehurst Monday morning and disgorged the executive council of the American Bankers' association which will assemble here in conclave and, incidentally, play golf throughout the coming week.

The arrivals included all the officers of the association and members of the executive council from every state and territory in the union together in many instances, with their families and secretaries. The Wisconsin representation includes John H. Fuchler, president of the Marshall and Lisle bank of Milwaukee and second vice president of the association; George D. Bartlett, secretary of the Wisconsin Bankers' association; Oliver C. Fuller, of the First Wisconsin National bank; E. M. Wing, of the Bavarian National bank of La Crosse, and Walter E. Sprecher, of the State Bank of Independence.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Cuticuro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so loosens the tender, sensitive skin under the toe nail, that it can be penetrated the flesh, and the nail grows naturally outward almost overnight.

"Cuticuro" is a harmless, antiseptic, and is factored for chiropodists. It is manufactured by Dr. J. C. Wright, of Chicago. A tiny bottle containing directions is sent free.

INDIANS DEFEAT CHICAGO SOX, 5-1

Recruit Hurler Has Two Bad Innings; Cleveland Cops Final Series Game

ATHLETICS DEFEAT WASHINGTON, 5 TO 1

Detroit Takes Three Straight from St. Louis, 2 to 1

CHICAGO, Ill.—Joe Morris, making his first start of the season for the Chicago White Sox, had two bad innings Sunday, in which Cleveland bunched hits behind a couple of passes and won the final game of the series, 5 to 1. Corcieskie held Chicago to six hits, three of which were made by Falk, and included a home run into the right field bleachers, which saved Chicago from a shutout. Score: Cleveland . . . . .000 000 020—5 Chicago . . . . .010 000 000—1 Batteries—Corcieskie and O'Neill; Morris, MacWeney and Schalk.

Athletics, 5; Washington, 1. WASHINGTON, D. C.—Washington relinquished its lead in the American league race on Sunday when it was defeated, 5 to 1, by the Athletics. Bryan Harris, pitching for the visitors, was in excellent form, yielding only seven scattered hits and striking out nine. Moorehead was hit freely before he made way for a pinch hitter in the sixth. Rain delayed the start of the game for an hour. Score: Athletics . . . . .020 012 000—5 Washington . . . . .000 010 000—1 Batteries—Harris and Perkins; Moorehead, Schmitt, Courtney and Gharthy.

Tigers, 2; Browns, 1. DETROIT, Mich.—Detroit made it three straight from St. Louis Sunday by winning, 2 to 1, in the eleventh inning. Kohn weakened in the eleventh, passing three men. Young then singled. Tobin made a sensational bare handed catch of Veach's line in the tenth inning, holding Veach to a single and preventing Detroit from winning at that time. The hit otherwise would have gone for a triple, due to ground rules. Score: St. Louis . . . . .000 100 000—1 Detroit . . . . .000 000 100 01—2 Batteries—Kohn and Billings; Oshman, Elmer and Ainsworth.

Badgers Establish Record As Hardest Hitting Aggregation In The Big Ten Conference

BY BILL WALKER

Following the week-end ball games participated in by Wisconsin, the Badgers loom in the conference as one of the hardest hitting aggregations in the Big Ten. Reports indicate that the Cardinal has many faults in the field and the men appear to be slow on the bases but in the games to date have demonstrated a greater aptitude for pounding the ball than any team in the conference.

Winning the games from Northwestern and Chicago by the same score of 7 to 1 on Friday and Saturday of last week placed Wisconsin in third place among conference teams as Illinois and Michigan have not been stopped. Michigan has played but one game while Illinois has chalked up four victories, the last one being over Iowa by a 12 to 2 score.

The one game lost to Indiana by a 1 to 0 score places Wisconsin in the position of runners-up. The Badgers still have to meet the strongest teams in the conference, including two games apiece with Illinois, Michigan and Ohio State.

Although bad weather has handicapped the team in its spring workouts, the men are showing up well. The pitchers have been working in mid-season form. Williams, Miller, Paddock and Christiansen are the four hurlers on Coach Lowman's 1921 staff.

With recent shifts in the Badger infield lineup, Ruediger, the Fountain City star, is assured of a permanent position at third base for the remainder of the season. He has been covering his ground well and batting with the rest of the team. He got a three-bagger against Northwestern as did Captain Elliott. Elliott gave up his duties at short to Farmington during the games of the last week-end to play in center field because of an injured ankle.

THE WORM FAMILY

One big point in favor of the worm as a bait is that it can be found in good numbers almost anywhere. A few turns of earth with a spade gives you enough bait for an afternoon's fishing. Four species of worms are probably the most useful in fishing: The blackheaded worm without the band or knotlike ring, which is rather dark in color and the toughest and best looking of the lot, found in garden soil. The ringed worm with a ring around the body, a little above the middle, and a flatter looking worm which is found under old manure heaps and such places. This worm is softer and does not make as good bait as the blackheaded worm.

The marsh worm, which has a whitish ring and is a pale blue in color and is found under stones and among decayed leaves and under rotting logs. The redheaded worm is found in rich earth near manure heaps and is quite thick in proportion to its length. It is dark red and, owing to the fact that it loses its color after being in the water a short time, is not as good for bait as the others.

When worms are taken from the ground they are full of earth and until they are cleaned do not make the best bait. A fish likes the pink color of the cleaned worm and it is a simple matter to do this. When they are dug up out of their home grounds they should be washed well with water. Put them in a panful of water and stir them around with the finger, but don't crush them or shake roughly, then place them in an earthen crock or jar and put in plenty of moss. And here is the big point to remember in the "care of the worm," wring the moss thoroughly so that all water is eliminated. The moss must be kept dry in order to extract the moisture from the body of the worms, and this toughen them for the hook.

BIRD SEWS LEAVES WITH SILK

The winter is a good time to find birds' nests as the hedges are leafless, and nests may be found in places which have been carefully searched in vain in summer. The kingfisher's nest is a wonderful thing, being composed of fish-bones. It is possible that these bones are the remains of fish, the bird going to the same hole year after year when nesting. But eggs certainly are laid upon them. One of the warmest nests is the Cape tit's, as it is woven entirely of the down of plants, and so closely woven that it resembles felt. Still more wonderful is the craftsmanship of the noisy tailor-birds of India, which work their bills thread leaves together with the silk of caterpillar cocoons.

RENO, YOU'LL LOSE!

For Washington Makes Divorce Even Easier

SPOKANE, Wash.—Two years from now the old song, "I'm On My Way to Reno," will be rewritten into, "I'm Speeding on to Spokane."

Spokane is due to become the divorce center of the United States, under a new divorce law which is the most liberal in the world.

All that is necessary to obtain a divorce in Washington after June this year is:

To establish residence here;

To prove you haven't lived with your wife or husband for five years.

No publicity; no scandals!

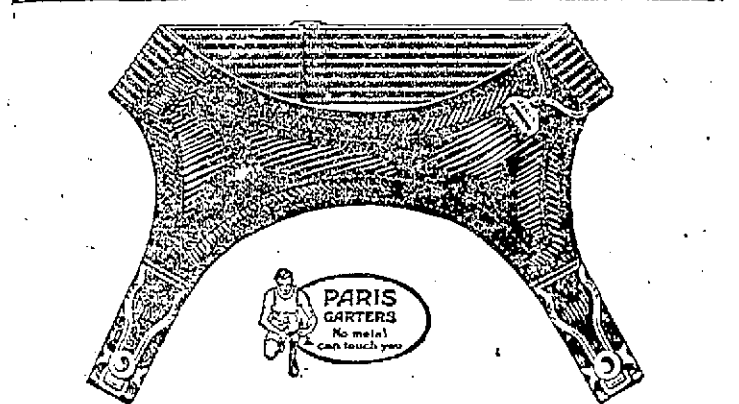

The law is retroactive. The five-year separation need not take place in this state.
